TRINITY HOUSES CHOOSE 109

Trin Registers Cars; Plans to Change Lots

The college has begun recently to make a definite effort to improve parking conditions around the campus. All students using their cars at Trinity should have registered their vehicles with the Property Manager before October 1. Identification decals have been issued to registrants, and these must be attached to car instrument panels so as to be clearly visible through the side window. Decals numbered from 1 to 199 are for faculty and administrative personnel, from 200 to 499 for neutral resident students, from 500 to 599 for fraternity members, and from 600 upward for all non-resident and extension students.

Lots' Capacity Short 170

The capacity of the faculty and student parking areas, not including the remote and seldom-used Broad Street lot, is approximately 305 cars. The total registration is 475, and the average number of cars parked in these areas during the day is 295. The success of the plan can not be appraised until it has been in operation for a longer period of time.

College plans call for eventual elimination of the Dining Hall lot and enlarging the Hallden Lab lot from a capacity of 58 cars to 200. The plans also provide for an as yet undetermined amount of parking space south and east of the new field house.

Joseph C. Clarke Recently Appointed to New Position as Dean of Students

Joseph C. Clarke, who since 1946 has been assistant dean of Trinity, was recently appointed by President Funston to a newly-created college position, that of Dean of Students. Continues as Coordinator of Student Activities

Mr. Clarke will continue to work under the Dean of the College, Arthur H. Hughes, handling discipline, campus activities, courses of study, and other undergraduate matters. He will also continue with his duties as Coordinator of Student Activities, a post to which he was assigned a year ago.

Dean Clarke became a member of the Trinity faculty in 1929 when he joined the athletic department as a coach in Football, Track and Swimming. He later became Assistant Director of Physical Education. It is

Harlequin Meets To Decide New Policies

Last week, the editorial board of the Harlequin, Trinity's new humor magazine, held an informal meeting to discuss policies and improvements for the coming issues. It was decided to increase the size of the magazine and to have a colored cover.

The purpose of the Harlequin is to offer the talent on campus an opportunity to express itself through humorous stories, verses, quips, and cartoons and, at the same time, present to the student body the lighter side of college life.

Manuscripts are welcomed from all undergraduates and requirements for membership on the board are contributions, literary or business, in two issues and election by the editorial board.

Trin Mooters Lay Plans for Meeting

With early season meets only a month away, Trinity's debaters are scheduled to open intra-mural matches soon.

Speech activities at Trin are supervised by the Atheneum, one of the oldest organizations on campus, which originated in 1825. Mr. James Egan again will advise the Society, which last year conducted debates with such colleges as Bryn Mawr, Williams, Amherst, University of Connecticut, Mt. Holyoke, and Wesleyan.

The Society is open to all Trinity students, and its officers stated that notice of its first meeting will be posted shortly.

expected that he will continue to coach the varsity swimming team this year.

In addition to his work at Trinity, Mr. Clarke has spent many summers serving as director of the Hartford Times Camp for underprivileged children and has done much work in helping children in the Hartford area.

He is a graduate of Springfield College of the class of '29. In 1932 he received his master's degree from Trinity.

Mr. Clarke is married and lives at 118 Vernon Street. His office is located in the Dean's Office on the first floor of Williams Memorial Hall.

This is to correct an article on Dean Clarke which appeared in last week's Tripod. The Tripod's red-faced apologies to Mr. Clarke.

Austin Wolf Opens Trin Lecture Series

Trinity's public lecture series this year will begin Thursday night, October 7, with Mr. Austin M. Wolf speaking on automotive engineering. He is a member of the Southern New England Society of Automotive Engineers, who also will be guests of the college during the evening.

On October 21 Professor Michael Dorizas of the University of Pennsylvania, who has just returned from Europe, will speak on conditions there. Sir Alfred Zimmern, visiting professor of international relations from Oxford University, will begin his fortnightly comments on world affairs on November 4. Sir Alfred is founder of the Geneva School of International Relations and author of "The Greek Commonwealth." He is a widely recognized authority on the League of Nations and had a part in the drafting of the United Nations Charter.

On November 11 George W. Hamilton, Professor of Art in Yale University, will deliver his talk in conjunction with an exhibition of paintings. December 9 will bring Alexander Trop, an Editor of "United Nations World." He has served with the United Nations, and will lecture on world government.

Tripod Quizzes Frosh On Trin

In line with the Tripod's established policy of getting itself out on a limb, your reporter invaded the sacred precincts of Jarvis Hall with an eye to questioning certain members of the class of 1952 as to their opinions of our venerable college.

Upon being approached, Tom Warren, of J-39 and Decatur, Illinois, commented, "Something that is lacking at Old Trin is the old school spirit. Is this from lack of pride in the school and teams? Personally I think the school and teams are fine. But the only way spirit can be increased is by everyone's doing his part."

Frank Allen, also from the remote reaches of Illinois, had this to say, "I do not like the selection of food served in the dining hall. The idea of 8:30 classes seems horrible to me. But on the whole I have enjoyed my stay here so far."

Ted Thomas, a Baltimorean, and J-39er, has a more optimistic view. He says, "I find up here that the students are very friendly, the courses very hard, and the activities numerous and interesting."

John Stewart, a native of Princeton, New Jersey takes a dim view of the whole situation with the statement, "The large number of Chapel credits that freshmen must acquire (100 a year) seems to me to be a rather ambitious undertaking but the idea behind it is a good one. Upperclassmen, however, definitely should not be made to acquire so many credits. If a man has not acquired the habit of going to church regularly by his sophomore year the chances are that he never will."

Powers for Medusa

At the first meeting of the Medusa it was decided that certain powers and conditions are necessary to bring about that prestige, position of authority and distinction held by the Honor Society. After much consideration, therefore, the following proposals were compiled:

1. That the Medusa be distinguished at all important college functions by distinctive gowns to be regular attire at church formal congregations and in such formal processions.
2. That the Medusa have complete government of student conduct with the prerogative of admonishment and punishment within acceptable limits and the supporting approval of the administration should the case warrant harsh measures.
3. That the Medusa at student meetings may cooperate with the Senate in conducting the policy or arrangements of such a meeting or function if it is necessary to improve conditions.

Unalienable Right

"I want you to get out and vote. I'm not asking you to vote for me; I'm asking you to vote for yourselves and your children."

All of the candidates say it and some firmly mean it. No matter who says it or how it is said, there is undeniable truth in it.

The leadership of this country for the next four years will be at stake shortly, and it is essential that the potential "vote" materializes. Any passivity or "intellectual indifference" on the part of the voting public can give birth to future disunity which we can not afford.

There is a sizeable group of eligible voters in Trinity. Most of these are not local people, and in order to cast a vote, a lengthy trip home is necessary. It is true that in some states there is an absentee ballot. New York State provides one, but if you are not familiar with certain details, the application cannot be filled in completely. Some states do not have an absentee ballot; New Jersey being a case in point. A Trinity voter from New Jersey is therefore stymied.

He will get over that hurdle by rationalizing that his one vote wasn't as important as those three classes he would have had to cut.

We feel that the college should publish a list of eligible out-of-town voters, and allow them to cut election day in order that they might exercise their most basic right.

A Moment's Thought

This year's Community Chest campaign at Trinity has gotten off to a slow start among the students and has given us pause for reflection on the apparent indifference on the part of a group in the college community. We are convinced that the average college man is personally generous and would express disgust if he were to see another refuse to help the sick, aged, and less fortunate, were the case directly before him. However, when it comes to giving help indirectly and on a large scale, such as is the case with the Community Chest and its member organizations, our feeling of responsibility and concern seems to cool a great deal.

The pledge plan of giving small amounts over the year means that every person on campus can take part in this great project without great sacrifice. Marty Rouse, in a letter to the student body, pointed out that the price of a pack of cigarettes or a movie a month would mean the difference between success or failure of the Trinity Campaign. As fortunate members of society we can hardly claim that contribution a sacrifice. It is, if anything, a great privilege to bring comfort and hope to those who desperately need it.

Good Show

The turn-out for the Williams game was a vast improvement over previous years and we feel this support of the team is decidedly a "good show," making the heavy work of winning football games a lot easier. As a matter of fact last Saturday was the excuse for a good deal of self-congratulation for Trinity. Notable was the valiant attempt by the cheerleaders for whom the Tripod has the greatest respect.

The team has gotten Trin's season off to a splendid start. The team is doing its part. Let's keep on doing ours and give them the support they deserve.

Greeks or Barbarians

By Phil Sturges

Spotting the Play

By Hank Perez

After reading my last week's feeble attempt at columnism, not to be confused by any silent senate investigators as comm, I felt an explanation to be in order. The monster, also referred to as "Grendel," was and is, in reality, only the unobtrusive slot machine which dispenses anything from grapefruit juice to chocolate milk to the habitual frequenters of Ulcer Gulch. It is rumored that Art Brown, directly related to the McBrown's, spent three days and nights searching for a nickel which, due to a common type of stomach trouble, was waylaid somewhere in the monster's innards.

This writer wishes to congratulate the new intramural director on his assignment. It is our opinion that tan, curly-headed Stu will more than fill the position left vacant for him by the late Don Phelps.

Unable to attend the football game at Williams because of the acquisition of a brother-in-law, we were visibly relieved when, while returning a beautiful quintet of Vassar vestals from their duties at a nearby parish, we noticed a haggard-looking chap sitting in an automobile, bearing the unmistakable markings of our northern neighbor. His face grew still darker as he viewed the TRINITY transfer sticker, purchased at the union store "long ago when one didn't feel obligated to spend the entire afternoon there before making a purchase." When engaged in conversation, he proved to be a likeable fellow and had no obvious repugnance towards the Trinity tosser, Kunkiewicz, or trotters Barrow and Eblen.

It is with great satisfaction that we note the failure of the EPHMEN in their attempt to keep the massacre at Western Field from the ears of the world, and Hartford. It was a bully try, but announcer Mullins still wishes his tires were inflated; not flat.

Because of the lack of space in the last issue, we were unable to sound our praises of the freshman class for their exemplary turnout for extra-curricular activities. It is a fine start, and it is to be hoped that their precedent is followed by ensuing classmen. It is this spirit of activity that will serve to develop more fully the life of the college as a whole and of the student as an individual.

It is our privilege at this time to voice the sentiment of the Trinity Tripod in an earnest appeal for more information concerning the doings of off-campus students. Comprising as they do such a large portion of the student body, the paper is desirous of more information concerning them. I will gratefully receive any contributions, while standing on my head immediately in front of Northam Towers, or while pretending to be sane anywhere else on campus.

For the continued contentment of our more residual readers we will from this time forth endeavor to deposit in this column every week at least one word of wisdom, similar, at least, to those deposits made by Confucius on the pages of history. No offense, Mr. Cooper. This week's timely tip came to me as I hobbled across campus towards this office. "Never play football in a rose garden in bare feet because hurts the feet."

Trinity Traditions

Tomorrow there will be a meeting of one of Trinity's oldest organizations, The Sophomore Dining Club, which is the undergraduate honor society. It was founded in 1897 to act as the official host of the college and its members are elected from among the sophomore class.

This year the Dining Club is returning to the traditional blue and gold caps, which are patterned after the university corps caps of Heidelberg. The Tripod will in the near future run pictures of this distinctive "badge".

In the course of a year the Dining Club will have the honor of entertaining the visitors to the campus and will have, as is traditional with this select group, formal Club dinners.

Last year, among others, the Club entertained Alexander Kerensky, the president of the short lived Russian Republic. During Mr. Kerensky's visit the Club arranged dinners and tours of the campus providing interesting, and at times amusing contact with the distinguished guest.

Watch for the caps, they'll be on campus soon!

Froshtration

By Jacque Hopkins

Strange as it may seem, Section I of the Freshman Regulations has changed our whole Freshman way of life. For years, many of us have thrilled to the indecent pleasure of brightly-hued cravats which remind one of the atomic explosion at Hiroshima. The pure whiteness of our shirtfronts were always gaily decorated by silken cloths of satanic brilliance. Now we are humbled by the wearing of handiworks of a despondent weaver. It is to the black tie we refer. Until this year, its use was restricted almost solely to habits of the Union League Club or like establishments. It now heads the list of Displaced Persons and we believe that the Freshman class should present the problem to the United Nations. Who knows? The Freshman Regulations might create a world situation! But we are not bitter, Boots, just discontented.

Then there's Rush Week. We will say that we enjoyed the beer, the food and the singing. But we yearned so many times for a fellow who would ask us, at least, "Have you ever perused Alling's treatise on mononucleosis?" instead of the inevitable "Why did you come to Trinity?" or, "How are your profs?" We have never read Alling's treatise on mononucleosis nor could we discuss it, however, we answered the first question at least 14 times and mumbled incoherent profanities in response to the second as many times. On second thought, we should complain? The beer was free!

The Williams game was gay enough. The score was 33 for Trinity and one touchdown and six megaphones for Williams. There was, however, some sort of poetic justice there. We took the game and Williams took the megaphones. All the same, we fear the voices of our cheerleaders after the next game.

We woke up in History the other day to hear our lecturer mention that the educational trend in Rome in the fourth century was similar to the American educational trend today. That is, the advancement of the theory that "learning can be fun." Strange, isn't it, as much as the theory has advanced, it still hasn't caught up with us? We are conservative members of the Young Republican Club who still believe in the idea that learning can't be anything but dismal. However, we guess we are just bitter because we are slaves to what a friend of ours calls "the Dadourian numbers racket."

The Reviewer

By Scott Bilyou

Maurice Evans is one of the few players in the American theatre carrying on the time-honored tradition of the actor-manager. Currently starring on the road in the most successful production of his career, George Bernard Shaw's "Man and Superman," which came to the Bushnell Memorial for two performances on the nights of October 4 and 5, Mr. Evans derives as much pleasure from his managerial duties as he does from his considerable Thespian talents.

It was another distinguished actor-manager firm that originally brought him to this country when Katherine Cornell invited him to appear opposite her in "Romeo and Juliet." The story goes that Miss Cornell's husband and director, Guthrie McClintic, went backstage after seeing Evans in "Hamlet" at the Old Vic and asked if he would be interested in coming to the States to play Romeo with his wife. The English actor replied that he would like to think it over, then dashed about London trying to find out "who is this Mrs. McClintic?"

Mr. Evans achieved his first success as an actor-producer in 1937 when he revived, for the first time on Broadway since the days of Edwin Booth, Shakespeare's tragedy, "King Richard II." At that time Shakespeare was box office poison to the commercial theatre. But some of the backers of his previous "St. Helena" came to his aid and Shakespeare became an SRO attraction.

In 1939, Evans was equally successful with a comedy portrayal of Sir John Falstaff in "Henry IV, Part I" which he alternated in repertory with "Richard II." In 1940 he temporarily abandoned producing to play opposite Helen Hayes in the Theatre Guild's production of "Twelfth Night" as the comedy servant, Malvolio. He returned to management the next year in "Macbeth" after persuading Judith Anderson to tackle her first Shakespearean role.

Came Pearl Harbor and he decided to enlist in the Army. Previously he had played "Macbeth" for troops at Ft. Meade and had discovered that the G.I.'s liked good theatre. He was assigned to Special Services in charge of entertainment for the Central Pacific area. He prepared units in Honolulu which were flown to remote sectors of the Pacific combat zones. All sorts and sizes of shows came off that assembly line.

After the war during the run of the "G. I. Hamlet," as it became known, preparations were made by Mr. Evans and his staff, most of whom had served with him in the Pacific, for "Man and Superman." In the summer of 1947 Mr. Evans flew to England to confer with nonagenarian George Bernard Shaw. Shaw then didn't know that Evans was a producer as well as an actor and advised him to stick to acting.

Jessee's Charges Run Over Williams By 33-6 as Long Runs Dominate

Eblen Goes 41 and 82
As Corcoran Runs 66...

By Bob Blum

Moving up and down Weston Field with semi-mechanical perfection, Trinity's Gold and Blue eleven overwhelmed the Purples of Williams at Williamstown, 33 to 6. With almost perfect football weather, Trinity encountered no trouble at all, scoring practically at will through the air and on the ground. The Jessemen displayed amazing strength, both in the line and backs, with Frank Eblen, Bob Barrows, and Tony Kunkiewicz turning in the best performances, along with the starting line from tackle to tackle; Trin has indeed a great team.

Noonan of Trinity kicked off at 2:00 P.M. to start the game, and after two futile plays, Williams kicked. Playing first around the ends and then through the middle, Trinity punched out a veritable string of first downs, sparked by the plunging of Eblen, and by an eighteen yard jaunt by Tony Kunkiewicz when no receivers were available on a pass play. It was at this point that the downfield blocking of the Bantams showed to advantage for the first time; it remained an important building block in the victory throughout. On the next play, Eblen carried to the Williams 7 for a first-and-goal-to-go. Moving to the 2 on three downs, Trin thrust Jack Corcoran at the right side. Jack fumbled, but Bob Barrows, playing an alert game, recovered in the end zone for a touchdown. DePaolis converted.

Corcoran Races 66 Yards

After two first downs, Williams punted, starting a short exchange of kicks which landed Trinity on its own 34. After one play for no gain, Corcoran raced 66 yards for a tally on a lateral from quarterback Kunkiewicz behind magnificent blocking, for a second-period score; and again DePaolis converted.

The remainder of the period passed in exchanges of kicks, with no outstanding plays save an interception of an intended Duffield-to-Cool pass by Frank Eblen on Trinity's 8 yard line.

Eblen Tallies

Mierzejewski of Williams kicked off to Corcoran, who bobbled the ball on the Trinity 20, and was stopped there by three Purple tacklers. After wasting two downs, Corcoran swept right end for a first down. On the next play, Kunkiewicz completed a pass to Seymour for a first down on the Trinity 45. Then, on a quarterback sneak Kunkiewicz picked up ten yards and another first down. A buck by the unstoppable Eblen brought yet another. Williams called time out, and shortly thereafter held, to gain possession of the ball on its own 27. Forced soon to kick, Williams soon found itself pressed again, as the Bantams pushed to the Purples' 41. Here, on a first down, and with the same polished blocking in the line that had made all previous scoring possible, Eblen broke through for 41 yards to score. DePaolis failed on the kick, but Trinity led, 20 to 0.

An exchange of kicks, featuring a 55-yard punt by Kunkiewicz, Williams began to move—for two plays. On a tackle after a completed Williams pass, Kunkiewicz, who shone on defense as well as on offense, stole the ball for a Trinity first down on the Williams 29. On the very next play, Carroll ran far to the right and heaved a jump pass to lanky Bill Pitkin, who snared it beautifully on the Williams 2 and stepped across for the score. Trin led 26 to 0, as Jessee flooded the field with the second and third-stringers. The quarter ended soon after.

Ratcliffe Intercepts

Williams, still fighting, moved the ball on a series of passes by Duffield to the Trin 32. On the second play after this, however, Lyn Ratcliffe, in for Oberg at center, intercepted on the 15. And on the first down, Eblen, playing the best game by far of his college career, blasted through the right guard and did not stop till he had outdistanced the entire Williams secondary for the Hilltoppers final score of the day. DePaolis kicked successfully, and Trin led 33 to 0.

Led by Hunt and Fisher, two excellent plunging backs who had had to clear their own holes all afternoon, Williams followed up its determination not to be shut out, and in a very few plays, fashioned a score, Fisher going over from the 3, for the day's final score.

Hereafter, the Trin third string took over, and held the ball until shortly before the game's end.

Hilltoppers Engage Norwich In Initial Home Game Saturday

Trinity's first home game of the 1948 football season will be with the Maroon of Norwich next Saturday, October 9, at 2:00. The Norwich team, under the tutorage of Jack Heffernan, have already engaged in two battles, dropping a 14-0 decision to Williams, who Trinity slaughtered last week 33-6, and winning a 27-0 whitewash over Mass. U.

Hale Lait, a 185 pound Senior, is the mainstay of the visitor's light line. Lait and Bill Malley, a 163 pound scatback, are the co-captains. Nick Psalidas is the leading ball carrier. This fact was verified even last year when he was named to the all-state eleven.

Coach Heffernan is in his second year as head coach at Norwich, and has established an excellent defensive club despite the fact that the starting line averages less than 185 pounds. The line hustles all the time and plays for the breaks — blocked kicks and fumbles.

Last year Trinity romped to a 33-0 triumph over Norwich, and plans to repeat this one-sided score. The Hilltoppers will probably field the same team that crushed Williams last week except for the ends where the competition is very keen between five candidates.

Intramurals Plan Activities for All

In the very near future all Trinity athletic facilities will see widespread use, resulting from an extensive intramural program which should be well under way in a few weeks. The program throughout the year will include touch football, volleyball, basketball, swimming, softball, tennis, golf, and squash.

It should be noted that intra-mural director Stu Parks of the Physical Education department is sparking a drive to make the 1948 intra-mural campaign an all-out affair. Mr. Parks is concentrating on the formation of independent teams which will afford intra-mural opportunities to all non-organized men who are not members of fraternities as well as to the eight fraternity teams. This year's goal will be to enroll at least six independent teams inclusive of the J-Sox and the Rioteers which were already formed.

The program will continue to stress the importance of getting every man in school who has some athletic interest to come out for intra-murals. The individual tennis tournament which is underway now is indicative of the way in which the program will operate. The tournament is divided into three groups consisting of: 1. Students on varsity squads, 2. Students who have played on the high school team corresponding to the sport in question, and 3. all other students who have had no previous coaching in the sport. The program will be so designed as to encourage enthusiastic participation on the part of every interested man, no matter what his ability.

And So it Goes

By Bill Wetter

The big thing about last week was not Trinity's win over Williams, or the Red Sox drive to a tie. No, the big thing was the crowd that showed up as Weston Field. To be sure the victory was upmost in everyone's mind, but the fact that so large a group found their way thru the wilderness to root for their team, was even more important than the 33-6 score.

In past years, even a home game with a more dangerous opponent than the team Len Watters fielded last Saturday, would not have brought so much enthusiasm! It was no wonder that Trinity coasted to its initial triumph of the season. With this kind of spirit continued and increased, the team certainly will be sharper the whole season. Wesleyan, look out!

But even in victory, the Hilltoppers showed several weaknesses that should, and must be overcome. While the Blue and Gold sifted thru the Williams forward wall all afternoon, it usually took the third or fourth man to make the tackle. Then too, Williams gained a big chunk of their yardage around our ends. But, seeing that it is the first game, and all things considered, the team should be on their way to another fine campaign.

Other Sports Begin This Week

The Varsity and Frosh Cross-Country squads will be in action this Friday when they take on the Lord Jeffs at Amherst. These eager candidates can be seen racing around the campus, up and down Broad Street, and along Zion Street almost every afternoon around four. Eddie Lemieux is really putting them thru a tough conditioning program, and the results should be noticeable.

At the same time that Trin is playing host to Norwich in football, Jay Geiger will be leading the Soccermen into battle with Worcester Tech on our grounds. Maybe the Hilltoppers can score a double victory.

Intramurals will be starting very soon with football playing an all-important part. With games scheduled Monday thru Thursday, it won't be safe walking across the campus with the vicious threats and wild passes that are featured in these games. Stu Parks certainly has made plans for the student body, and the resulting competition should be keen.

At the present, Trinity seems to lack any good college cheers. The latest one that made its debut at Williams was still pretty poor. The cheerleaders have the ambition, vitality and the voice to lead some vigorous cheers, if the student body would only think some up for them. Even a high-school cheer with a little patch work might do wonders.

Hats Off to WRTC

The radio station of Trinity College certainly did a great job in carrying the play by play account of the Trinity win over Williams. WRTC did some fine Sports coverage last year, but really got off to a great start Saturday. With that kind of spirit during the year, Trinity should be even more Sports-minded.

As for the college gridiron the coin comes up heads for Trin over Norwich (you name the score), Wesleyan over Coast Guard, Amherst over Bowdoin, Army over Illinois, Penn over Princeton (but the Quakers better look out,) Penn State over Syracuse (by at least six T. D.), Northwestern over Minnesota, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Vanderbilt over Mississippi, Duke over Navy, S.M.U. over Missouri, and finally Catawba over Wofford.

Trinity Nauticals Hold First Meeting

Meeting in Woodward Lounge last Thursday, the Trinity Nautical Association began its activities for the year. A large group attended to discuss the plans for this year and to show the freshmen what has been accomplished in the past. Movies were shown of the racing team at the regattas held last year at Coast Guard, Brown and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Commodore of the Nautical Association, Jon Lambert, presided over the meeting. He said that the freshmen present at the meeting were to begin to collect money towards the purchasing of a boat or two for the Association. This plan was put into effect last year with great success.

As a member of the Inter-Collegiate Yacht Racing Association, the Trinity group has had in the past a broad field of racing competition and is looking forward to an active year ahead.

Any freshmen who have not signed up for the Nautical Association and would like to do so should plan to attend the next meeting, which will be held on October 13th in Woodward Lounge.

Last week's efforts in the crystal ball department resulted in 16 correct guesses, 4 wrong and 2 ties. If we forget about the two stalemates, the average is an even .800 for the year. If the ties are counted as losses, the mark falls to .727. Certain interested parties will note that Brown nosed out Princeton, 23-20.

The listing for Saturday, October 9 follows: Amherst over Bowdoin; Army over Illinois; Wesleyan over Coast Guard; Columbia over Yale; Harvard over Cornell; Middlebury over Hamilton; Dartmouth over Holy Cross; Trinity over Norwich; Penn State over Syracuse; Pennsylvania over Princeton; Villanova over Miami; Indiana over Texas Christian; Mississippi State over Clemson; Georgia over Kentucky; Louisiana State over Texas A&M; Purdue over Michigan; Tulane over South Carolina; Southern Methodist over Missouri; Texas over Oklahoma; Ohio State over Iowa; Kansas over Iowa State; Northwestern over Minnesota; Notre Dame over Michigan State; U.C.L.A. over Washington; California over Wisconsin; Washington State over Montana; Southern California over Rice; Vanderbilt over Mississippi; Arkansas over Baylor; and Navy over Duke.

ALPHA DELTA PHI with every termite holding grimly to his post, weathered another week at 122 Vernon St. While Harper shouted assignments from the top floor, your ball-point correspondent noticed that: twelve strange faces appeared at breakfast; Brewer rolled to Boston; Hiestand, with twelve Alaskan huskies, rushed for Villanova; a hardy crew unfurled Brookes Maue, Four Roses, and mentioned something about New York by Sunday; Dan Lohnes and Bud Lambert, while picking up small change as domestics, muttered grimly about the haves and the have-nots; we have a young exchange student from France, M. Le Boyle, (ed. note: France wishes nothing in exchange); little is known concerning D. Harding's private life, but rumors are current that it would make very racy reading.

ALPHA CHI RHO wishes to announce that Robert A. Werdelin of West Hartford has been accepted by this chapter as an Associate Brother. The Crow-of-the-Week is Brother Frank Eblen, whose two touchdowns against Williams Saturday filled every Alpha Chi Rho heart with pride. As a result of the recent pledging the house finds itself with a Brother Bob Mullen and a Pledge Bob Mullins, a grand total of six Bobs. The total is further obscured by the brothers Rau and a couple of Mitchells left over from last year. The Crow house extends its congratulations to Pledge Don Wildrick, who joins Brothers Paul Thomas and Jack Bland on the Pipes.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON: Relieved with the ending of Rush Week, is thinking, mind you, just thinking, of getting down to the books. Very little action has been taken on the theory of work so far, but a few of the brothers, such as Twitch Woollacott et. al., have made half-hearted attempts to start the ball rolling. Twitch will find willing helpers among the pledges it seems, as all they do is work. This, of course, has worried some of us, but is probably due to some weather condition, or the position of the moon or something, and it will pass in time. Brother Burns, on the other hand, is more concerned whether the freshmen will have to wear black ties at the Soph Hop — even if they wear tails.

PSI UPSILON heartily welcomes the eighteen new men pledged last Wednesday. The party that night was a great success due largely to the nimbleness of Brother Duck MacClellan's fingers as he concocted his "sloe-death". On Saturday, Club 81 was the scene of one of the greatest exoduses in history as the Beta Betas descended upon the Delta Deltas at Williams, like the seven-year locusts. However, this horde brought its own wheat. They were greeted with open arms but one of our red headed brethren said afterwards that the loyal sons of Williams were adamant about preserving their goalposts.

SIGMA NU congratulates its new pledges and welcomes them into the house. Of special interest is the fact that Skip Corwin has become a member of the Pipes. It took a long time for Dick Warner to get back from the Williams game. Maybe it was the traffic, because Bob Landers didn't get home early either. Did someone say Al Bolinger is taking a "Pie D" course? Is there any connection between "Chuck's" broken tooth and Tom's fractured wrist?

DELTA PHI, her forces bolstered by the pledging of fifteen men, looks forward in expectation of great things to come. Under the able supervision of Pledgemaster Hadley, the newest additions to the Brownstone Manse are studiously assuming responsibilities calculated to give the Brothers a much needed rest. Event of the week:

The Saint Elmo Motorcade swung into action Saturday last, transporting a large army of Delts to Williamstown, where, after the memorable grid spectacle, the Sigma Chapter was entertained by our Brothers of Williams. The wee hours of the morning found the last of the stragglers safely home, effecting the completion of the first mission with at least no permanent mishap.

THETA XI is finally getting back on an even keel after the Rush Week and weekend activities. The boys spread to the four corners of New England and even touched a few spots outside, last Saturday. Brother Austin and pledges McGaw, Hatfield, Forte, Thoma and Christakos took in the Williams game, after which some of them dashed over to Brother Wack's summer place near Pawling. Pledge Raden headed for Philadelphia with Brother Hatfield and his wife, while Brother Schultz took a long journey home to see the distant hills of West Hartford. The Colony would like to take this opportunity to welcome its fifteen new pledges. We hope that our association will be a long and prolific one.

Lensemen Call PM Meeting Thursday

The organizational meeting of the Trinity College Camera Club will be held in Room 1-1 of Jarvis Physics Building at 1 p.m. tomorrow afternoon, it was announced by Ron Tostevin following a preliminary session Monday.

Tostevin, in a statement to the Tripod, urged all students interested in the Club's activities to be present at the brief meeting planned for the customary first-of-the-month holiday in Chapel services.

Prof. Constant has agreed to act as unofficial advisor for the group.
